

ABSTRACT

Provided is a semiconductor laser including a substrate etched into a mesa structure, an active layer, clad layers, a current blocking layer, an etch-stop, an ohmic contact layer, and electrodes, and a method for manufacturing
5 the same, whereby it is possible to improve a ratio of light output to input current by blocking a leakage current flowing outside an active waveguide in a BH laser.